How To Return A Vehicle – Start The Process Online For A Return

Returning A Vehicle

Start The Process For A Return

The process can only be started online only. You can't just simply abandon your vehicle and demand a return, It doesn't work that way. The process has to be accepted in principle before you can return a vehicle and then you have to return the vehicle under our terms only.

Returning A Vehicle

Ref: To the appropriate terms & conditions of the above (Returns terms: For the vehicle sold under).

To return a vehicle you must complete the online form (Ref: Cancel & Return A Vehicle).

<https://www.justusedcars.co.uk/cancel-and-return-a-vehicle/>

If the process is successful and we except the return in principle, Make sure that the vehicle is clean inside & outside, Make sure that it is not damaged & drives in the same condition as it was sold. Bring the vehicle back to us at our location where you purchased the vehicle from and bring along with you all the paperwork that was completed on the day of purchase.

You Have A Duty Of Care – Basic Maintenance Required

Forecourt (Retail) Vehicles (Maintenance Required)

Forecourt (Retail) Vehicles (Maintenance Required)

You have a duty of care for any vehicle sold under the category of Forecourt (Retail). To extend the life of the vehicle you are responsible to keep up with the maintenance of the vehicle by checking the fluid levels at least 3 times a week for the first few weeks, followed by every 5 days thereafter. A full service is required each year i.e. changing the engine oil / coolant & air filter at the bare minimum. We not only recommend, But insist that you take pictures of this maintenance work if you are carrying the work out by yourself, Or keep any receipts/garage bills for future references. You will be required to show evidence of the fluid levels being check whilst the vehicle has a current warranty in place (Check your warranty agreement). Once your warranty expires you are still expected to perform basic maintenance on your vehicle.

Private Or Trade Vehicles (Basic Maintenance Required)

Private Or Trade Vehicles (Basic Maintenance Required)

You have a duty of care for any vehicle sold under the category of Private Or Trade. To extend the life of the vehicle you are responsible to keep up with the maintenance of the vehicle by checking the fluid levels at least 3 times a week for the first few weeks, followed by every 5 days thereafter. A full service is required each year i.e. changing the engine oil / coolant & air filter at the bare minimum. We not only recommend, But insist that you take pictures of this maintenance work if you are carrying the work out by yourself, Or keep any receipts/garage bills for future references.

Spares/Repairs & Salvage Vehicles (Basic Maintenance Required)

Spares/Repairs & Salvage Vehicles (Basic Maintenance Required)

If you were sold a vehicle in any of these categories and you have decided that you are going to repair the vehicle, Once you have addressed all its major issues for the reasons why the vehicle is in any of these categories. You will now need to extend the life of the vehicle as you are now responsible to keep up with the maintenance of the vehicle by checking the fluid levels at least 3 times a week for the first few weeks, followed by every 5 days thereafter. A full service is required each year i.e. changing the engine oil / coolant & air filter at the bare minimum. We not only recommend, But insist that you take pictures of this maintenance work if you are carrying the work out by yourself, Or keep any receipts/garage bills for future references.

Check Fluid Levels – Basic Maintenance Required

Check Fluid Levels (Maintenance Required To Validate A Warranty)

Check Fluid Levels (Maintenance Required To Validate A Warranty)

You need to check the vehicles fluid levels as indicated, (Ref: Pages 9 & 10) Or check your warranty policy to validate a warranty. If you have a warranty in place you will need to provide photo evidence that you are caring and carrying out this basic maintenance which is required if you need to make a warranty claim.

Seller Warranty (Forecourt Retail) Vehicles

Vehicles sold in this category you will find photo examples which are required. (Ref: Warranty Cover)

<https://www.justusedcars.co.uk/warranty-cover/>

Third-Party Warranty (Private Or Trade) Selected Vehicles

Vehicles sold in any of these categories with the optional third-part warranty in place, You will find photo examples which are required. (Ref: Third-Party Warranty Cover) <https://www.justusedcars.co.uk/third-party-warranty-cover/>

Third-Party Warranty Cover – Private Or Trade (Selected Vehicles Only)

Third-Party Engine & Gearbox Warranty Cover (For Selected Private & Trade Vehicles Only)

Keeping The Vehicle Road Legal

Keeping The Vehicle Road Legal (For Road Use)

The vehicle must be kept road legal for all road use at all times, Insured ,Taxed & MOT'd if kept or driven on the public roads.

Our Right To Cancel A Warranty Claim & Becoming Void

Your warranty claim may, Or will be cancelled with immediate effect for any of the following reasons.

- #1). If the vehicle has received significant minor or major damage. This may affect the vehicle in the condition that the vehicle was sold under, Or when the warranty policy was first issued against the vehicles condition at the time of being issued. This could potentially result in a failed engine or gearbox possibly at the time or at a later date which could increase liability.
- #2). If you have been convicted of speeding or disqualified from driving, As your warranty does NOT cover your vehicle for racing or being driven aggressively.
- #3). If you are unable to provide photo evidence of all the fluid level checks being carried out.
- #4). If the vehicle has NOT been kept road legal during and at the time of any warranty claim and whilst being driven or kept on the public roads.
- #5). If the vehicle has been modified without notifying us beforehand, Which may also increase any risk or liability.
- #6). You fail to bring or have the vehicle recovered to our location for any repairs to be carried out, Or you fail to pay any recovery costs.
